

To Be in the Present Tense Exercise

| Affirmative | Abbreviated | Negative | Questions |
|----------------|---------------|-------------------|-----------------|
| I am angry | I'm angry | I'm not happy | Am I happy? |
| You are angry | You're angry | You aren't happy | Are you happy? |
| She is angry | She's angry | She isn't angry | Is she angry? |
| He is angry | He's angry | He isn't happy | Is he angry? |
| It is angry | It's angry | It isn't happy | Is it angry? |
| We are angry | We're angry | We aren't happy | Are we happy? |
| You are angry | You're angry | You aren't happy | Are you angry? |
| They are angry | They're angry | They aren't happy | Are they angry? |

A Fill the gaps with the correct form of the verb to be.

Affirmative sentences

- I never happy on a Sunday afternoon.
- We Scottish.
- He a pilot.
- Samantha and Nigel angry.
- You clever and good-looking.

Negative sentences

- You French.
- Gloria at home.
- Linda and I pleased about it.
- I cruel.
- It good.

Questions

- you from Tokyo?
- Ricky Mexican?
- we alright for milk?
- he married?
- you tired?

B Now make up some examples of your own.

-
-
-
-

Answers

Affirmative sentences

1. I'm never happy on a Sunday afternoon.
2. We're Scottish.
3. He's a pilot.
4. Samantha and Nigel are angry.
5. You are clever and good-looking.

Negative sentences

6. You're not French.
7. Gloria isn't at home.
8. Linda and I aren't pleased about it.
9. I'm not cruel.
10. It isn't good.

Questions

11. Are you from Tokyo?
12. Is Ricky Mexican?
13. Are we alright for milk?
14. Is he married?
15. Are you tired?

