

Anymore, No longer and Still Exercise

- anymore something stops (in negative sentences) She doesn't love me anymore.
- no longer something stops (in positive sentences) I no longer love her.
- still ⇨ something continues (positive and negative sentences) I still don't like him.

Fill the gaps with anymore, no longer and still.

- 1 I don't go to the gym
- 2 Begonia goes swimming on Tuesdays. She now goes on Fridays instead.
- 3 Are you seeing Anne?
- 4 I don't know what time the train leaves. I phoned the station but no one answered.
- 5 The doctor said I mustn't drink coffee
- 6 Miranda doesn't live in Angola
- 7 They had a big fight so they're friends.
- 8 We go to that restaurant because they put the prices up.
- 9 He hasn't answered my email. I hope everything's OK.
- 10 I haven't cleaned the bathroom. I must do it tomorrow.
- 11 She doesn't love me and there's nothing I can do about it.
- 12 You need a visa to visit Thailand from Spain. That makes it much easier.
- 13 My niece believes in Father Christmas. That's rather sweet, isn't it?
- 14 I believe a word the prime minister says. He's been caught lying too many times.
- 15 I don't eat chicken Factory farming is unbelievably cruel.

Answers

- 1 I don't go to the gym any more.
- 2 Begonia no longer goes swimming on Tuesdays. She now goes on Fridays instead.
- 3 Are you still seeing Anne?
- 4 I still don't know what time the train leaves. I phoned the station but no one answered.
- 5 The doctor said I mustn't drink coffee any more.
- 6 Miranda doesn't live in Angola any more.
- 7 They had a big fight so they're no longer friends.
- 8 We no longer go to that restaurant because they put the prices up.
- 9 He still hasn't answered my email. I hope everything's OK.
- 10 I still haven't cleaned the bathroom. I must do it tomorrow.
- 11 She doesn't love me any more and there's nothing I can do about it.
- 12 You no longer need a visa to visit Thailand from Spain.
- 13 My niece still believes in Father Christmas. That's rather sweet, isn't it?
- 14 I no longer believe a word the prime minister says. He's been caught lying too many times.
- 15 I don't eat chicken any more. Factory farming is unbelievably cruel.

